

Five Hundred Protest FPHA Rent Raise

Protest Group Seeks Meeting With Officials

By Phil Wexler

At last Monday night's Citizens Association meeting a Greenbelt Rent Increase Committee was appointed to take care of the residents before the proper authorities to seek a more satisfactory solution to the rental problem. Last Tuesday night the committee met at the home of Abraham Chasnow, 11-T Ridge rd., to discuss a plan of action. Martin Miller, 17-A Ridge rd. was elected chairman of the committee and it was decided that he would act as spokesman for the committee on all information released to the newspapers.

A night letter was sent to the Director of the Federal Public Housing Authority requesting an appointment for an interview to be held sometime early next week. At this meeting the Committee will present the grievances of the local residents pertaining to the new graded rent program going into effect on June 1st.

Mr. Miller stated: "The citizens are circulating a petition protesting the anticipated rental increase and all families are urged to sign it so that the petition can be presented to the FPFA officials as proof that the Greenbelt residents are dissatisfied with the new program. It will also serve as proof that this Committee appointed by the citizens really have the sincere backing of the residents in presenting this protest."

The Committee will seek a postponement of the effective date of the new graded rent program so that a satisfactory solution to this community problem can be worked out in conjunction with FPFA officials. Various data has been presented and accumulated by the Committee to justify the dissatisfaction created by the new program and will be presented to the proper authorities.

Chairman Miller stated that the Committee will issue its full report to the citizens of Greenbelt immediately following the discussion with the FPFA officials. "It is to be hoped", Mr. Miller declared, "that a solution will be arrived at at this meeting with FPFA that will be fair and equitable for the residents".

Enrollment Sought For New Canteen Course

A Red Cross canteen course for women who have completed the preliminary course in nutrition, is being prepared by Mrs. Josephine McGuire, instructor, it was announced this week.

The course is to instruct women in serving at Red Cross canteens, Mrs. McGuire explained. A prerequisite for the course is that candidates have completed the course in nutrition. In view of the fact that two nutrition courses have been held, it is anticipated that a sufficient number of students as well as others who may be qualified for the canteen course.

Those wishing to enroll are requested to phone Mrs. McGuire at Greenbelt 2581 before Monday.

P.-T. A. Election

There will be a meeting of the elementary school P.T.A. on next Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock. The Recreation directors will be present to explain the summer program. Election of officers will be held.

New G. H. A. Nurse

Miss Margaret Singleton has been employed as the nurse for the Greenbelt Health Association. She took over her duties Wednesday.

A directors meeting, previously postponed, will be held Monday evening, it was announced.

Where We Stand

The Cooperator is not opposed to the principle of basing rents upon the ability of the tenant families to pay. We have little sympathy, though, for those—whose improved fortunes are due at least in part to Greenbelt—who can find nothing more constructive to do than to rationalize the Government's continuing to subsidize their rent at the expense of low-income workers who need the assistance Greenbelt offers in maintaining a decent minimum standard of living.

However, we recognize the validity and constructiveness of certain of the objections advanced by opponents of the housing authority's plan.

One is that allowances should be made for the number of children in a family. Children are always regarded as assets by any government, and the expenses incidental to raising a family are recognized and allowed for by the Government for income tax purposes. It would seem legitimate, therefore, to make similar allowances in computing family rentals. The principle of including total family income in applying the rental formula we believe to be fair.

Another valid objection is to the use of the 20 percent factor in the determining of the optimum rental. In these days of inflationary food costs the amount of food taken from the low-income family is proportionately—in terms of adequate nutrition—much greater than that taken from the upper-bracket families. The scale should be graduated much more steeply, and should be correlated to "real income" rather than dollar income in order to have its effect fall with more nearly proportionate weight in terms of cost in standard of living.

Finally we deplore the fact that the authorities have abandoned the original plan to keep Greenbelt a low-income community. For income groups above $3900, the $65 limit represents a progressively lower cost of rent, which permits these relatively fortunate families to remain here at the expense of (1) low-income families in Greenbelt, who pay a proportionately higher rent, and (2) of low income groups outside of Greenbelt who are prevented from moving here and sharing the life of this community.

School Students Dedicate 6 Jeeps And Motorcycle

The students of the Greenbelt schools had caught the spirit needed for winning the war according to Staff Sergeant Earl Burson in speaking last Wednesday at the dedication of six jeeps which were given to the army. In a special drive the students accumulated enough money in war bonds and stamps to buy six jeeps and one motorcycle. These were officially presented to the Army in a ceremony outside the elementary school by John Dirschel representing the elementary school and Joe Cashman representing the high school.

"Kitty Jeep" was sponsored by Group I, "Greenbelt Eagle" by Group II, "Hitler's Headache", by Group III, and "G for Greenbelt" by Group IV. The high school students sponsored "Greenbelt"

Hula Dancers Big Attraction At May Festival

And now we know who is the most ardent hula audience in town. It's composed of two little girls, twins about three years old, and their older brother. But not much older—about five years—would be about right for him. And they were so fascinated by the hula as danced by nine Greenbelt schoolgirls that they simply walked out of the audience and stood solemnly—jaws ajar—in front of the dancers throughout their number. Three little heads went from side to side, following the swaying grass skirts, and when the dance was over, three youngsters stood, hopefully awaiting an encore. But Mamma came and back they went—after a brief moment's glory—to become part of the unsung audience. As the jivers have it, they were solid

Questions and Answers on the Proposed Rent Raises

Here are some of the more comprehensive inquiries fired at the Administration during the recent record breaking Citizens Association meeting. These questions represent fairly accurately a wide variety of the problems inherent in the FPFA rent raise for a majority of Greenbelt residents, the answers to them are a matter for personnel evaluation.

Question: If Greenbelt was built as it was because private housing cost too much, why compare it with private housing now and make it subscribe to the same standard.

Answer: People in private housing have a hard time of it now, too. There are two alternatives as a solution to the situation: either force those over the income to move, or grade the rents.

Question: Why must those whose incomes are below or equal to the original income restrictions pay more rent in order to allow those whose incomes are over the maximum restrictions to stay in Greenbelt?

Answer: "We had to start somewhere."

Question: Why is the service-man's income included in the overall computation?

Answer: It is really part of the income. In cases of a drafted head of the family, rent will be

Citizens Ask Reconsideration Of Schedule Effective June 1

Dayton W. Hull

An aroused and determined Citizens Association trumpeted defiance last Monday evening to the rent increases scheduled to become effective June 1 and appointed a committee to carry its protest to the national office of the Federal Public Housing Administration.

Chlorine Waves Roll at the Old Swimming Hole

It's time to haul out the swimming togs and ye old beach umbrella, sun tan oil and ye sun glasses, for the pool will be open, according to all present indications, at noon on May 30th, this year of 1943.

Admission charges will be the same as were in force last year—to wit: ten adult tickets for $2.00 plus tax; ten children's tickets for $.75 plus tax; and individual admission $.35 plus tax. The pool will be open daily from 9-1 p. m. and 2-9 p. m. and Sunday from 12 to 9.

Anyone holding a Senior Red Cross Life Saving Certificate may apply for a job as lifeguard at the pool. Three full-time guards are needed for daily eight-hour duty, and two part-time guards are already on the staff. Qualified and interested persons should contact Ben Goldfaden, recreation director.

Maryland U. To Present Religious Play Sunday

The University of Maryland's "Footlight Club" will present a religious play, "The Heroine of Ava" under the sponsorship of the Community Church, Sunday evening at 8:15.

The play will comprise ten musical numbers. The singing lead will be taken by a member of the Civic Opera Company of Baltimore, and musical accompaniment will be furnished by the University of Maryland Concert Orchestra, according to Rev. Wilmer P. Johnston. "The Community Church considers itself very fortunate in being able to sponsor this musical and dramatic presentation," he said.

Admission will be free, and a silver offering will be taken.

Girl Scouts To Collect For Goodwill Industries

Greenbelt's Intermediate Girl Scout troops will start Sunday, May 24, to cooperate with the Goodwill Industries by calling on all residents for old clothes and shoes to be collected by the Goodwill. The drive will last five days and all clothes collected will be reconditioned by the 100 crippled workers employed by the Goodwill Industries.

Over 500 Greenbelters listened restlessly to Mr. Roy S. Braden, Community, speak for one hour and ten minutes on the history of the rent question and the reasons for the increase, then heard Citizens William Hennessy, self-styled "champion of the cause of the Boston taxpayer", lash at the town management for indifference to the financial problems of Greenbelters.

Declaring that Mr. Braden, Mr. Rysticken, and Mrs. Kinzer were "hampering the war effort by encouraging the rise in rents", Orotor Hennessy urged those present to refuse to pay the new rents. The thundering applause which followed his brief speech set the pattern for the rest of the meeting.

Mr. Martin Miller took the floor to point out that living costs were rising, that the President had issued his famous "hold the line" order, and that rent increases at this time would contribute to inflation.

Mr. Arthur Rysticken, Assistant Community Manager, attempted to answer questions and rebut the arguments advanced by speaker after speaker. He and Mr. Braden called attention to the fact that the average income of Greenbelt residents had increased from $1594. in 1939 to $2962 in 1943, and that the average rental was only advancing from $31.50 to $44. This meant, according to Mr. Rysticken that whereas formerly rents took 24 per cent of the community income, rents even under the new schedule only took 17 per cent of the income. It was explained that 20 per cent of the average person's income goes for rent, and that Greenbelters were still better off than persons who were not enjoying the benefits of subsidized housing.

Furthermore, as Mr. Rysticken explained, persons outside Greenbelt also had to meet increases in living costs, but regardless of income they were paying ceiling rents. Under the new Greenbelt rent schedule only those with the highest incomes, approximately 35 per cent of the residents, would have to pay ceiling rents. Persons with lower incomes will pay on a graded scale so that those with the smallest incomes will have no increase in rent at all.

The Committee on Rent Increases, appointed by the Chairman, Mr. Joseph Comproni, was directed in a motion introduced by Mr. Abe Chasnow to "ask reconsideration of the change in rentals and adjust them on a more equitable basis which will include recognition of size of family, minor children, increased costs of living, and other factors." Committee members were Messrs. Miller, Hennessy, Chasnow, Griffin, Morrison, and Mrs. Unelli.

The rent question has been a Greenbelt discussion topic ever since the first resident arrived. To gain admittance each resident has had to show that his income did not exceed certain maxima: $1650 for a married couple; $1800 for a couple with one child; $2000 for a couple with two children, and so on. A 25 per cent increase in income was allowed before a resident was asked to move. In 1940 a Citizens Association Committee visited Dr. Will Alexander, Administrator of Farm Security Administration, and asked that persons over the income limits be allowed to remain by building their own houses or by paying increased rents. It was agreed then to place

To The Point

May 18, 1943

To the Editors:

For quite some time the administration has been holding out the promise of a green summer to those defense homes as yet bereft of lawn. We really believe that efforts have been made to procure this grass. We fear, however, that these efforts have been to little avail. At least no tangible evidence has as yet met our dust rimmed eyes. To hasten, if possible, the sodding or seeding of our landscape, we tender this suggestion:

The tenants who are so inclined, could sod and seed the lawns themselves. The sod and seed could be furnished by the Administration. A minimum of expert supervision on the part of official landscapers would assure success of the work. As an inducement to the tenants, a reimbursement of the labor cost thus avoided by the Administration could be made to the working tenants in the form of credit against their rent.

In this manner another bond of cooperation between the tenants and the Administration could be forged. The tenants would really appreciate the grass so justly earned by the sweat of their brow if they really thought their cooperation was appreciated. On the other hand, the Administration could show itself to be truly interested in the welfare of the inhabitants of our fair community by offering tangible encouragement in the form of rent credits to the full amount saved. Naturally, many wrinkles would have to be ironed out of this idea before its successful implementation would be assured.

However, we feel that it has some merit and are quite anxious to see if it can be put into effect in the near future.

How now—what think ye?

Figures Don't Lie, But---

The skeleton in the statistician's closet most frequently turns out to be Mr. Average Man with his Average Income. He is the last ditch in any defense of figures, and an amazing pliable interpretation can be applied to his activities.

It is well to remember that he is a myth, more easily exploded than most.

When the figures start flying and you find that according to documentary evidence you are really paying less rent under the new schedule (according to your income) than you were under the old, remember that, if twelve families earn $1,000 a year each and one family earns $8,000 a year, the average income for the group will be statistically accounted for at $1,538.46 a year.—B. S.

Blow, Blow, Ye Wintry Winds

So you had a meeting. And quite a meeting, too, I'd say. Public opinion at its most vocal. Frankly, I'm disappointed in you, townspeople mine. Local public opinion I'm all for, but not when it goes off on a tangent and becomes personal. It's too bad when people who have been handed a nasty job by their higher-ups have to take it on the chin by a lot of folks who feel they have been "done."

Make no mistake about it. I am sympathetic with your grievance. We're going to have a lot less of this world's goods, probably including some food, if the rental raise goes through. I'm glad to sign a petition, when and if one comes my way, and I'll do anything else I can to restore peace and harmony and a payable rent, but I'm John Brown if I don't think a lot of you snowballed yourselves into a frenzy and said things you didn't mean.

Anyway, I hope you didn't mean everything you said, I'd like to think that you really are an objective group, like you used to be, and that you just got excited. Dignity is a useful weapon and likely to carry more strength than anger. Calm down, my friendlies, let's fight a rent raise and not the people who have to administer it or lose their jobs.

A Charming Sight

If you missed the Young People's Dance last Saturday night, you missed a charming sight. Those youngsters in formal dress were positively heartwarming, and the fun they had was something to see. It did me good to sit on the sidelines and watch. All the other dances we've been to have belonged to us oldsters and if any kids came, they sat and watched us have fun. This time the shoe was on the other foot. The dance was theirs. They were the top dogs. And we sat and watched and loved it. Next dance June 12. Better ask the girls early, boys.

What's wrong with the P.T.A.? Or is anything? And if not, why don't they have a better attendance? If you think the program is too formal—and I understand some do—come to the meeting Monday night and say so, offer another suggestion or just toss a question out for the people to mull over. Mrs. Reed will be there, particularly to discuss the promotion system in this school. Some parents have felt that unless a child left the sixth grade for the seventh or the fourth for the fifth he was showing signs of taking after Uncle Hiram and ought to be drowned, whereas it works differently in the Greenbelt school. Mrs. Reed is glad to explain the system to you parents and hopes that a number of you will be on hand to discuss it with her Monday night. Doris Dungan Armstrong and Ben Goldfaden will also be on hand to tell you about the summer recreational program, both children's activities and the adult program. Monday night, in the auditorium, 8:00 o'clock.

Canteen Workers Needed

Anybody interested in Red Cross Canteen work? Call Mrs. Josephine McQuire, 2581, before Monday.

Anybody interested in Red Cross First Aid, standard course? Room 225, Peggie Arness, instructor. Last call, however; any comers after this Friday, don't come. No credits can be given for the course for any beginners after this Friday. Room 225: 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

Won't be long now before we'll all be shoving each other off the springboard. Pool opens Memorial Day, and from the temperature of the past two or three days, it can't come too soon to suit me. Gangway! Don't crowd the board.

To Hang or Not To Hang?

To the Editors:

After reading the editorial on the regulations restriction clothes and clotheslines, I'd like to add my bit. No doubt you've had various expressions, but I feel this is "one for the book."

I am the mother of three-month-old triplets. Due to wartime conditions, we are unable to secure competent domestic help or buy any such item as a washing machine. I do all the work myself, as we are far away from home and there are no relations to lend a helping hand. My day begins at 5 and ends at 11, and any mother can tell you there is little time for rest even with one baby, so I can't really be accused of wasting time.

Yet—the management "insists" that I do no laundry on Sunday. When Monday is a rainy day and it often is—and sometimes it rains on both Saturday and Monday—I not only am thrown off the schedule so necessary to babies, but my work seems doubled.

I have appealed for some consideration of this problem but not only do I get an unconditional "No," no constructive suggestions have been forthcoming. It's just like knocking my head against a stone wall.

Don't misunderstand me—I'm not complaining about the long hours or the hard work—I, with a husband in the Service, realize that all of us are working longer and harder. But there are those of Greenbelt who don't seem to realize that war is here, too, and although a woman's job of home-making is considerably less glamorous than that of those in uniform, it's just as important. Not only is there a war to be won, but there's a generation to be built! And I can't say I think mothers in Greenbelt are getting much help.

Now I'll descend from my "soap box" speech making. I'm hoping that something can be done about this situation. Let the authorities follow my footsteps for a day, especially on Monday, and I'm quite willing to bet there's be some action. I'm sure that other mothers in Greenbelt, especially with two or three tiny children, will back me up on this issue.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Fred Meredith
4-N Laurel Hill Road

P. S. Perhaps we could engage Mr. John L. Lewis to organize our children in a union which would have as its platform "no dirty diapers on Sunday." That's as logical as any other suggestions I've received!

Children also reports that in 1939 the Swedish co-ops bought twelve million dollars worth of strategic materials on the world market which helped all of Sweden through the crisis. The irony of the situation, he points out, was that under the wartime laws, the co-ops had to share their reserves with private retailers and that nearly one-half of the co-op supply of coffee, for example, was turned over to private merchants.

Preliminary plans for the celebration of the first hundred years of Co-operation will be referred back to the people, the Centennial Committee of The Co-operative League decided at a meeting May 8 and 9. A very rough outline of activities for a year long Centennial Campaign in 1944 were worked out in draft form. These are scheduled for discussion by regional co-operative officials and members of thousands of local co-ops throuth the country before they take final shape. One basic aim of the campaign will be the creation of a Centennial Committee in every co-operative to help plan and carry out the centennial campaign.

The Greenbelt Band played led by their old band leader Private Herman Meyers who appeared unexpectedly for the occasion. The high school girls' glee club sang "America on the March".

The annual May Festival was directed this year by Miss Hendricks, music and dancing teacher for the school, and represented weeks of practice by the pupils. A crowd of at least 750 Greebnetters attended, overflowing the chairs into the lawn.

OUR NEIGHBORS

Here I am now, trying to be Sally Meredith! Sally is unable to be present this week as her young son isn't well. So, here goes . . .

Mrs. Gretchen Stoutmeyer left Tuesday for Des Moines, Iowa with Joanna and David to visit her family. After several weeks there they will visit Mr. Stoutmeyer's family in Chatsworth, Illinois. Mr. Stoutmeyer will join them there.

Mrs. Howard Alder, a former Greenbelt resident and employee of the drug store, is now visiting her sister, Mrs. Harold L. Maw, of Woodland Way, together with her seven months' old son, Craig. Mrs. Alder's marriage was the culmination of a Greenbelt romance, for though both she and her husband are from Salt Lake City, they met here. Mrs. Alder will be here until the first of June.

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Hull, with "Debbie" and "Chip" will leave Tuesday to spend a week in New York, Connecticut and Pennsylvania, visiting family and friends.

Friends of Martha Hanes of 12-M Parkway will be glad to hear that she is recuperating nicely and has returned from Garfield Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan and son, Billy, of 22-A Hillside, visited in New York last week-end.

"Jeff" Jeffries, Lana, Bud, Jimmy and Nancy are now living on the Glendale Road, just off the Baltimore Pike. They moved from Hillside Road last week. Jeff will continue to act in the capacity of assistant to the General Manager of G.C.S.

Jack Fruchtman's little daughter, Kay Ellen, had her first birthday on Mothers' Day. Also celebrating his first birthday last week was Dr. Morris' little son.

Mrs. Gordon Finley left last Friday to see her mother in Nebraska.

That takes care of our civilians for the week. Now, to go to the Armed Forces.

Private "AC" Worley, Greenbelt, arrived at the Finance Replacement Training Center recently to begin basic training in finance. He is the husband of Mrs. Martha Worley, Parkway, Greenbelt, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Worley, Boring, Oregon. Prior to his induction he was a budget analyst, Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Edwin C. Wells, stationed at Pearl Harbor, has been sending his wife and daughter wonderful presents of grass skirts, shell necklaces, leis, slippers and handsome straw pocketbooks. He plans to look up two other Greenbelters also there, Helmuth Bentien and Fred Van Fleet. Mr. Van Fleet and Wells used to do aeroplane spotting here last summer.

Jack Gale, stationed at New River, North Carolina, in aerial photography interpretation, called his mother yesterday to congratulate her for her birthday. Was she surprised and pleased!

That about completes the news in at present. I'm sure you all will be as pleased to have Sally back as we will be.

a moratorium on rents for present residents while they built their own homes through the Greenbelt Homeowners Cooperative. In November 1941 an order to vacate by March, 1942 was issued to all excess income families not members of the Cooperative. This order was never enforced, nor were the Homeowners ever able to build their houses, for by 1942 the war had skyrocketed building costs and war-workers had occupied the houses to which Greenbelters were to move.

New Babies

Calling all parents! Mrs. Bertha Bonham, Town Clerk, and your reporter are wondering what's become of Greenbelt's new babies. Are you folks letting down on the job? From the looks of things, we don't think so; so let's have all the dope.

There's a town ordinance which imposes a fine on those parents who do not submit a form, giving certain information pertaining to the birth of any child. This form may be obtained from Mrs. Bonham at the Administration Office.

This week's announcements are: Merle Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas Cox, Jr., 15-B Parkway Road, was born way back in March at the Garfield Hospital, Washington.
